BANGLADESH MARINE ACADEMY, RANGPUR (BMAR) THE ALMA MATER OF THE MARINERS

Bangladesh's maritime heritage dates back to ancient times, with its people naturally inclined toward seafaring. Renowned for its skilled maritime community, the country boasts a rich shipbuilding legacy, expertise in ship breaking, a robust maritime workforce, and claims to fame such as the largest bay, delta, river networks, mangrove forests, and the world's longest sea beach.

The first Bangladesh Marine Academy in Chattogram was rebuilt and refurbished under the leadership of the nation's founding father, Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman after liberation war. It was formally re-established in July 1973. Recognizing the growing demand in the global shipping industry and the abundance of untapped intellectual youth, the honourable Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina inaugurated four new Marine Academies namely Rangpur, Barishal, Pabna, and Sylhet on 6 May 2021.

BMAR commenced its journey with its inaugural batch of 50 marine cadets in 2021, completing pre-sea training under the guidance of the Chattogram Marine Academy. Presently, the academy is training its 2nd and 3rd batches, consisting of 34 Nautical and 31 Engineering cadets in the Passing-Out Batch, with 23 Nautical and 23 Engineering cadets in the Junior Batch.

The current government aims to leverage the potential of the blue economy to propel Bangladesh from a middle-income nation, as envisioned in 'Vision 2021,' to a developed country by 'Vision 2041,' emphasizing sustainable utilization of marine resources and fostering the maritime sector. Establishing four marine academies is a strategic step to meet future demands and sustain the continuous development of maritime manpower. Mariners not only significantly contribute to the economy but also serve as representatives for projecting our national identity, culture, and heritage to the global community.

While Bangladesh is inherently a seafaring nation, the maritime profession has traditionally been dominated by coastal communities. The establishment of these new academies is dignified to revolutionize this tradition, inspiring newer generations to engage in this esteemed and promising profession.
